BRITISH GOLF PRESTIGE BOWS BEFORE U.S. INVADERS

First Ryder Cup Reverse on British Ground Meant Record American Victory

London, June 30.

ESTABLISHING a new record in the history of the tournament, the golf professionals of the United States won the Ryder Cup on British soil for the first time to-day, defeating their British opponents by seven matches to three, with two halved.

The Americans will now endeavour to accomplish the "double" by capturing the British Open, which will be played at Carnoustie from July 5 to July 9.

With a lead of 2½ to 1½ in the foursomes, the Americans won five and halved one of the eight singles in the worst possible conditions—there being rain and wind—to achieve what no other American Ryder Cup team had previously done—defeat the Britons at home.

The greatest defeat in the singles to-day was suffered by the British open Champion, Alf Padgham, who went down by the huge margin of 8 and 7 to Ralph Guldahl, the American Open Champion.

Dismayed Champion

Six down in the morning, the Briton fell to pieces in the afternoon, when his opponent outhit and outputted him. Padgham is so dismayed at the quality of his play that he is seriously considering not defending his title at Carnoustie next week.

The only American to halve was Denny Shute, who once again found himself hoodooed at the 18th hole, failure to sink a putt at which cost America the Ryder Cup in 1933.

Although the consequences were not so great to-day, it nevertheless cost him the match against King after the fiercest struggle of the day.

Shute displayed great form at putting and driving, but the Briton hung on grimly, playing lovely approaches.

Singles

Ralph Guldahl (U.S.A.) beat Alf Padgham by 8 and 7;

Denny Shute (U.S.A.) and S. L. King halved;

Henry Cotton (Britain) beat Tony Manero by 5 and 3;

Sam Snead (U.S.A.) beat R. Burton by 5 and 4;

Dai Rees (Britain) beat Bryon Nelson by 3 and 1;

Ed Dudley (U.S.A.) beat A. Perry by 2 and 1;

Gene Sarazen (U.S.A.) beat P. Alliss by one up and

H. Picard (U.S.A.) beat A. Lacey by 2 and 1.

Foursomes

Ed Dudley and Bryon Nelson (America) beat Henry Cotton and Alf Padgham (Britain) by 4 and 2;

Percy Alliss and R. Burton (Britain) beat Henry Picard and Johnny Revolta (America) by 2 and 1;

R. Guldahl and Tony Manero (America) beat Arthur Lacey and W. J. Cox (Britain) by 2 and 1; and

Charles Whitcombe and Dai Rees (Britain) finished all square against Gene Sarazen and Denny Shute (America).

Details of the singles matches follow:

Guldahl v. Padgham

The American, who had the huge lead of six up after the morning round, maintained his good form in the afternoon to triumph by 8 and 7—the biggest win of the day. Guldhal's drive to the third covered a full 350 yards. Padgham, completely off his game, found the bunkers at the third, fifth and sixth. At the 11th the American made a lovely pitch over a bunker to win the match.

The following afternoon scores tell of the one-sided struggle:

Guldahl	3	5	3	5	4	4	5	3	5	4	4
Padgham	3	4	4	6	5	5	4	4	4	4	4

Snead v. Burton

Snead, who won by 5 and 4, began and finished strongly. He generally outdrove Burton by yards, but he was inclined to take risks. The Briton tried to play a safe, accurate game, but conditions were against him.

Snead	4	4	4	5	4	5	4	3	4	5	4	5	3	4
Burton	3	5	4	4	5	5	6	3	4	5	4	6	4	4

Rees v Nelson

Dai Rees, the Welsh assistant, who was one of the two Britons to win, was very steady. He was hardly away from the fairway. Nelson was almost as good, but he was unlucky at the ninth where, stymied, he knocked in his opponent's ball. At the 18th the American took four to reach the green. The card read:—

Rees	3	4	4	4	4	4	4	4	5	4	4	4	4	4	4
Nelson	3	4	4	5	4	5	4	3	5	4	3	4	4	4	5	6

Cotton v. Manero

Cotton, the only other Briton to triumph besides Rees, and Manero were both uncertain in approaching, which weakness cost three holes each in the outward half. On the homeward journey the American's tee-shots were wild and he was badly bunkered in the last two holes.

Cotton	3	4	4	6	5	4	4	4	5	3	4	3	4	4	3
Manero	3	5	4	5	4	5	5	3	4	5	4	4	4	6	4

Picard v. Lacey

Picard, who won by 2 and 1, and Lacey staged a great driving duel, both being accurate on the fairways. Lacey had bad luck with his approach shot at the 15th after a lengthy drive, allowing his opponent to draw up. The Briton made a great effort at the last hole for a half, but he just failed to hole out with a chip shot.

Picard	3	4	4	4	4	5	4	4	4	5	4	4	3	5	4
Lacey	4	5	3	4	5	4	4	3	5	4	3	5	4	4	3	5	4

Sarazen v. Alliss

Alliss was nervous in the closing stages to the dour American, who staged a brilliant finish to win by one up. Sarazen's irons towards the close were pitching dead on the greens. On the other hand, Alliss, who was driving beautifully going out, was erratic on the homeward trip

Sarazen	4	5	4	5	4	4	4	2	4	4	3	4	5	4	2	5	4
Alliss	4	4	3	5	4	4	4	2	4	5	4	5	4	5	3	5	4

Dudley v. Perry

Dudley picked up his ball at the 14th after being bunkered. The cards read:—

Dudley	3	4	4	4	4	4		3	5	4	4	3	4
														picked up	2	6	5
Perry	3	4	4	4	4	4	4	4	4	5	3	5
												3				3	4	5

Shute v. King

Shute	3	4	5	4	4	5	4	3	4	5	5	4	4	3	4	4	4
King	4	5	5	5	5	4	5	2	4	4	4	4	4	3	4	4	3

Won for Britain

With Padgham's golf in the doldrums due to palsied putting it is a comforting thought for British golf that Henry Cotton (above), who in 1934 brilliantly ended the long American domination in the British Open, is well on his game. In the Ryder Cup singles he easily beat Manero, who snatched the 1936 U.S. Open from Harry Cooper in a whirlwind finish.

FARR-SCHMELING IN WORLD BOUT

The British Boxing Board's Recognition

FIGHT POSTPONED UNTIL END OF AUGUST

London, June 30.

After a conference lasting three hours, the Stewards of the British Boxing Board of Control to-day decided to recognize the forthcoming bout between Tommy Farr, British and Empire heavyweight champion, and Max Schmeling as a world title fight in view of the fact that the German's fight against Joe Louis was recognized as an eliminating contest for the world title.

As Schmeling won, the Stewards agreed, he was the rightful challenger to Jimmy Braddock for the title, and as Braddock was beaten by the Brown Bomber, it was rightful that the contest between Schmeling and Farr should be for the world title.—Reuter.

Postponed from August 9

Berlin, July 1.

The boxing match between Max Schmeling and Tommy Farr which has been recognized by the International Boxing Union as world championship bout, has been postponed from the originally announced date of August 9 to a date at the end of August.

The postponement is due to the wishes of Max Schmeling who in the recent negotiations insisted that the match take place at the end of August. The White City stadium in London has been definitely selected as scene of the fight.—Trans-Ocean.

FARR WANTS TO MEET LOUIS INSTEAD

London, July 1.

The British heavyweight champion Tommy Farr now suddenly threatens to withdraw from the planned world championship bout against the German Max Schmeling but to fight Joe Louis instead.

In a statement to the press, Farr's manager Ted Broadribb declared that Farr was indignant because the promoter Kritchly had offered him only £7,500—while Schmeling should get twice as much.

Boxing circles here express considerable astonishment that these declarations by Farr and his manager were made shortly after the British boxing authorities had officially recognised the Schmeling-Farr fight as world championship match.—Trans-Ocean.

Malcolm Campbell After Gar Wood's Record

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

Glasgow, June 30.

Sir Malcolm Campbell, the British holder of the world land speed record, who is preparing for an attempt on Gar Wood's world speedboat record of 128 miles per hour, attained a speed of 85 miles per hour in his motorboat Bluebird on Loch Lomond to-day, despite bad visibility.

Sir Malcolm was very much pleased with the trial, but stated that further adjustments were being made.—Reuter.

ST. LOUIS BLUE: LOSE AGAIN TO CUBS

New York Yankees Stretch Lead to Four Games

New York, June 30.

For the second time in as many days, the Chicago Cubs to-day trimmed the St. Louis Cardinals at St. Louis and held their slim lead in the spirited National League Pennant race.

The Cubs needed the victory, as the second-place New York Giants trounced the Phillies with ease. Had the Chicagoans lost, the New Yorkers would have snatched the lead. As it was, the Cubs remained one-half game ahead.

As the game opened at St. Louis, each team's batters were faced by a former team-mate. LeRoy "Bud" Parmelee, mainstay of the Cardinal hurling staff last year, went to the mound for the Cubs to-day, and Lon Warneke, former idol of the Cubs, started pitching for St. Louis. Neither man stayed, however, the Cubs using three relief pitchers and the Cardinals two.

Cubs' Harvest of Hits

The final count was 9-4, after the Chicago club had pounded out 22 hits and the Cardinals had accounted for II. A sixth-inning spurt in which the Cubs scored four runs established their lead and gave them the victory.

The Giants, meanwhile, were chalking up a 7-2 victory over the Phils, with Clydell "Slick" Castelman in rare form and allowing the visitors only four hits. The Giants collected five runs in the fifth inning and were never in danger after that.

Dodgers Twice Shutout

The Boston Bees entertained the Brooklyn Dodgers with a double-header at the Hub City, and handed the visitors a double shut-out. Frank Gabler pitched superbly for Boston.

The New York Yankees boosted their lead in the American League to four full games to-day, trimming the Athletics while the second-place White Sox lost to the Detroit Tigers.

RIOTING PUNTERS CLOSE TRACK

Judges' Unpopular Decision in Canadian Race

Toronto, Ontario, June 15.

Rioting punters, who threw stones at the horses, picketed the tote windows and swarmed all over the course, succeeded in suspending racing for over two hours at the Thorncliffe Track here after an unpopular decision by the judges had made racing history of another sort.

The decision which the crowd called in question was one which caused the second race to be re-run after it had been discovered that one of the entries, an outsider named Lassies Mary, had failed to start. The starter claimed that the race had not in fact been properly started as, noticing that one horse was absent, he did not lower the official flag.

At the second running of the race Lassies Mary won handily, paying odds of 80-1 on the tote. Thereupon backers of the original winner, a horse at short odds named Vanished, proceeded to picket the tote windows to prevent winnings being paid out on Lassies Mary.

Horses coming out for the next race were stoned from the course and had to be taken back to their stalls. To make sure that there should be no more racing other disgruntled punters swarmed on to the course and defied the police to remove them.

Officials of the course tried in vain to appeal for order over the loud-speakers. They were booed and shouted down. Finally a delegation of five, representing the striking punters, was chosen to negotiate with the general manager of the course.

They failed to come to any agreement. Fifty special policemen, hastily sworn in and armed with rolled up newspapers, thereupon cleared the course and restored order.—Reuter.

SEALS OVERTAKING SENATORS

Sacramento Lose 5-2 Count to Portland

San Francisco, June 30.

The San Francisco Seals gained another game on the Sacramento Senators, leaders in the Pacific Coast baseball league, by trouncing the last place Missions 3-1 to-day while the Sacs were dropping a 5-2 decision to Portland.

The victory left the runner-up Seals less than two games behind the league leaders. The Seals rode to victory to-day on the arm of their steady twirling staff which held the Missions to only five hits. The Seals were charged with one error, but the blunder did not prove costly because of the air tight pitching which kept the Mission runners off base. San Francisco bunched eight hits in running up their three tallies.

The Portland Beavers, last season's pennant winners, meanwhile were outhit by the Senators, but managed to outscore the league leaders with the assistance of one Sacramento error.
